

Public Sector

BCAL have been commissioned for a wide range of public sector projects, all with a differing, and often complex, set of requirements.

Alternative forms of contract have been used successfully for these types of schemes, including design and build, with BCAL acting either as advisor to the client or working directly for the contractor.

The 100 years' life expectancy of a record office, the protection measures required at a juvenile secure unit and the acoustic and safety requirements of a firearms range, demonstrate BCAL's capability to successfully complete demanding projects.

Other schemes include a theatre, magistrates' court, highways depot, council offices, and numerous educational establishments.
